EY Wins Medalist Award For Third Year In a Row

El Yanqui has received the Medalist award, the highest possible, from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association for the Spring and Fall semesters of 1963.

This is the third year in a row El Yanqui has received the Medalist rating. The paper also recently won the All American Award, for last Fall's editions, from the Associated Collegiate Press. El Yanqui has won five All American Awards since 1960.

Judges comments about El Yanqui included such remarks as "A first rate product, lively, provocative, well laid out and by and large handsomely illustrated."

The Medalist Award is based on four aspects of newspaper production: content, writing and editing, make-up and general considerations. A point system is used in the judging of the four categories.

In the content section, El Yanqui scored 282 out of a possible 300, and in writing and editing scored 367 out of a possible 400. El Yanqui scored 184 of a possible 200 in the make-up section, and 93 out of a possible 100 in general considerations.

A total of 1000 points were possible in the scoring, and El Yanqui received 926, placing itself in the top 10 per cent of the newspapers submitted.

The Medalist Award is granted to publications selected from the First Place ratings for special consideration. According to the judges the award is based on intangible qualities that could be characterized as the personality of the entry.

College Board Member Killed In Auto Accident

R. Stafford Hughes, a Monterey Peninsula College Board member for the past two years, died last weekend in an automobile accident. He was 44.

Mr. Hughes was killed while returning to his home in Rancho Aguajito from Phoenix. He is survived by his wife, Mary Belle, four sons and a daughter.

Hughes was the vice president of the Monterey Savings and Loan Association. He was elected by College Board members in 1961 to fill a vacancy left by Dr. Jack Hovick.

In 1963 Mr. Hughes received more than 5,000 votes, a large majority, at a regular board election, retaining his place on the board.

Born in Salinas, Mr. Hughes attended Pomona College. He was a 1943 graduate of Stanford University.

"The college staff and administrators were deeply shocked by the death of R. Stafford Hughes," Frederick R. Huber, MPC president, said. "He has been a member of the college board of trustees since 1962. He was re-elected overwhelmingly in 1963. He has had a deep and abiding interest in the total program of the college and great sensitivity to its present and future needs. He will be sorely missed by this institution. Our sympathy and prayers go to his wife and family."

Dr. Margaret Swigart, a member of the Board, said, "The other members of the College Board share my deep sense of loss. Mr. Hughes was one of the hardest working members of the Board, and we all appreciated his interest in and contributions to the welfare of the college."

"The entire faculty is profoundly shocked over Mr. Hughes' death. He was universally respected and tremendously admired," Warren Chapman, president of the MPC Faculty Association, said.

MPC was closed yesterday afternoon and last night in memory of Hughes. The memorial closing included evening division classes and was ordered by President Frederick R. Huber.

e.g., the campus literary magazine scheduled for publication this Spring, will be dedicated to Hughes, according to advisor Raymond Fabrizio.

Folksingers to Perform May 1 In Library Patio

MPC will celebrate May Day with a program on the Library Patio by two local folksingers, Kit Snow and Eleanor Wallace.

The Student Council voted to use money left in the Four-College Dance fund to have the folksingers perform in two informal shows May 1. Snow and Mrs. Wallace will sing from noon to 12:20, and then from 1 to 1:20. The programs will be different and will be free.

Kit Snow, a 12-string guitarist, has appeared at the Hungry i and the Purple Onion in San Francisco, on the Theodore Bikel Show over KPFA radio in Berkeley, and as a guest artist on CBS television.

Eleanor Wallace of Carmel plays an 11-string Baroque lute. As a teenager in Iowa, Mrs. Wallace had her own regular radio show, and later worked in television in Detroit. She is also a guitarist and a composer.

Clare Fischer Featured In Jazz Concert Sunday

Clare Fischer, noted jazz pianist-composer, and Patricia Coker, jazz vocalist now living in Monterey, will be featured artists in a concert to be presented by the MPC Jazz Band this Sunday.

Also featured will be the premiere of "Tomorrow's Sunday," a new work by Jack Stock which combines classical and jazz techniques in "Third Stream" composition.

PATRICIA COKER, an improvising jazz vocalist, will be featured in a jazz concert presented by the MPC Jazz Band this Sunday. She is the wife of Jerry Coker, MPC music instructor.

Jerry Coker, MPC music instructor, will conduct the new 18-piece group in special music for its "unique instrumentation" of four French horns, two trombones, tuba, rhythm section and eight woodwinds "doubling on saxophones, flutes, oboe, bassoon and all of the clarinet family." Coker will also be heard as a tenor saxophone soloist in the concert.

Clare Fischer has risen to jazz fame in the past few years for his recording work as composer, arranger, pianist, organist and alto saxophonist. He was the composer-arranger of such records as "Portrait of Duke Ellington" (performed by Dizzy Gillespie); "West Side Story," (Cal Tjader) and "George Shearing Bossa Nova." He has also made several record albums as a pianist with his own trio. In a recent release, "Extension — Clare Fischer Orchestra," Jerry Coker was featured soloist. The music from "Extension" will be performed during the MPC concert.

Patricia Coker is one of the few improvising jazz singers in the country. Her professional experience includes singing with the bands of Claude Thornhill and Ray Eberle. One of her original songs, "You'll Stay," has been recorded.

The concert will be held in the Music Hall at 8:15 p.m. Tickets will be at $1, with the proceeds going toward a music scholarship fund. They will be sold by jazz band members and at the music hall door.

Folksingers Joe and Eddie To Climax Charity Week

Folksingers Joe and Eddie, heard on the radio singing "There's a Meeting Here Tonight," and folksinger Stan Wilson will appear in a concert at MPC May 16.

The show, sponsored by the ASMPC, will climax Charity Week. Proceeds will be addded to the JFK Memorial Loan fund.

Joe Albert and Eddie Brown began singing together in junior high school at Berkeley, but had no formal training until they attended Berkeley High School.

The 21-year-old folksingers became a team when they entered a talent contest eight years ago. The two friends didn't want to compete against each other, so they decided to sing together as a team. They did and won, and began their careers.

Joe and Eddie began performing at fraternity and sorority parties at the University of California. The southern-born singers got their first big break when they auditioned to appear on the Don Sherwood television show in San Francisco. Their first appearance on the Sherwood Show brought them offers from San Francisco's Purple Onion and from Leonard Sillman's review, "New Faces."

Since then, they have apepared at the Hungry i, on the "Tonight" show, the Vic Damone "Lively Ones," Hootenanny, the Jackie Gleason Show, the Danny Kaye Show, and at Basin Street East in New York.

Joe and Eddy

"We like what we're doing. If we can sing and get paid for it, all the better; but we're going to sing, no matter what!" Joe and Eddie have said.

The concert will be held at the MPC Stadium. Tickets will be $1.50, $2 or $2.50, depending on the seating, and are available in the Administration Building or at Abinante's Music Store in Monterey.

"This is the biggest thing that MPC has ever attempted as far as activities are concerned," Steve Shore, a member of the Student Council, said. "If we succeed with this, it will mean that in the coming years we're going to have some more really top entertainment here."

"This is an experiment, and we have to make it a success," ASMPC President Bob Barker said, summing it up. "If we don't make this go over big, then we'll never have any other big name entertainers here," he added.

UN Under-Secretary To Speak Here May 8

The Under-secretary of the United Nations, Ralph J. Bunche, is scheduled to speak at MPC May 8.

Bunche, who has a Ph.D. in Government and International Relations, received the Nobel Peace Prize for his work in Palestine, resulting in the four armistice agreements between Israel and the Arab States.

Doing post-doctorate work in colonial policy and anthropology, Bunche studied at Northwestern University, the London School of Economics, and the University of Capetown in South Africa.

Mr. Bunche joined the international staff of the United Nations in May, 1946, when he was assigned to the UN by the U.S. State Department. His first contact with the UN came in 1944 at the Dumbarton Oaks Conference and the UN Conference on International Organization at San Francisco in 1945, which he attended as an advisor to the U.S. Delegation.

He has been the recipient of numerous honorary degrees and awards. Among the latter are Phi Beta Kappa, the Nobel Peace Prize, the Spingarn Medal, the Four Freedoms Award, the Peace Award of the Third Order of St. Francis, the Golden Key Award and the Presidential Medal of Freedom, which he received last year.

Stafford Hughes

Stafford Hughes served this college with integrity and courage. Death, particularly of this kind, seems so wasteful and useless. Yet his life was a successful one, filled with service and dedication to his community and those of us who attend this college.

The tragedy may well be that too few people are willing to serve as he and others have. We will miss him. We can't hope to replace him but we can hope to continue to have men of his high caliber on the Board of Trustees of this college.

Let's Go All the Way

El Yanqui believes that the Student Council tends to work on a variety of small tasks instead of completing one main project at a time. Last semester, the Council decided to dedicate a scholarship in memory of our late President Kennedy. The fund lay dormant until the proceeds from the Leap Year Dance were donated. The Press Club then matched all money donated to date. The fund now has $254.44.

The Scholarship has since been changed to a loan fund. It will still be a memorial to John F. Kennedy, but will serve a larger number of people over a longer period of time.

We all know the problem of the "drop-out" in our community. If a person loses his job, the Peninsula lacks enough industry to allow him to find other work quickly. Our $50 loan won't keep a man in college if he needs $200. We have other loan funds on campus, but these lack sufficient capital to meet the needs.

Our J.F.K. Memorial Loan Fund needs working capital. The money from the Joe and Eddie Concert will be donated, but El Yanqui believes this is not enough. With approximately $600 donated from Charity Week, we could have an adequate loan fund. We consider it unwise to send money away to other states or even nations while students are still being deprived of an education on the Monterey Peninsula.

President John Fitzgerald Kennedy never went half way. Why should we?

Stock Speaks Out

By MEG DeWOLF

Directing, acting or teaching, Morgan Stock's life is in the theatre.

Stock, head of the drama department here, has been acting and directing for 24 years. "I was bitten by the bug in the sixth grade," he laughed. "Mother sent me to elocution school, and then I got to perform at family reunions."

After he finished high school, the war interrupted his drama training. He did one show at Camp Roberts during the war, and that led to his commission as a major, he said. "It wasn't that I was good or anything—I just had attention focused on me," Mr. Stock added.

"I had no degree after the war," Stock said. "It dawned on me that I had an education in the theatre, and I couldn't let it go to waste." So he went into teaching, attending MPC for a year and getting a B.A. and M.A. at Stanford, he left his his directing and acting for summers and spare time.

Morgan Stock has been at MPC for 10 years now, directing most of the plays at the Little Theatre. He said that none of his students have yet really successful in the theatre in New York or Hollywood. He said that Monterey is an awful place to bring people up, because it's an awful place to leave, he explained. "It's so darn nice here that they can't fight it out in Hollywood or New York and come running back," he said.

"I'd like to do theatre of the absurd here, if I could," Mr. Stock said when asked what was in store for Little Theatre audiences next semester. This is one of the new trends in theatre, he said. In theatre of the absurd, you seem, on the surface, to be going nowhere and to get nowhere, Mr. Stock went on. It is quite often satiric and funny.

Stock says his first choice, if he had his life to live over, would be to be a successful actor. Of course, he added, he's known in San Francisco as "the tame Tibolt" and "not the fiery Tibolt" after playing that part in "Romeo and Juliet" there. "I'm not the graceful catlike Tibolt," he said. "I make a better Sir Toby Belch."

Mr. Stock also had something to say about critics. "They're valuable," he said. They at least mention, in a review of the amateur play, someone who is acting out of the kindness of his heart or just for the fun of it. "A good critic can perhaps raise standards," he went on.

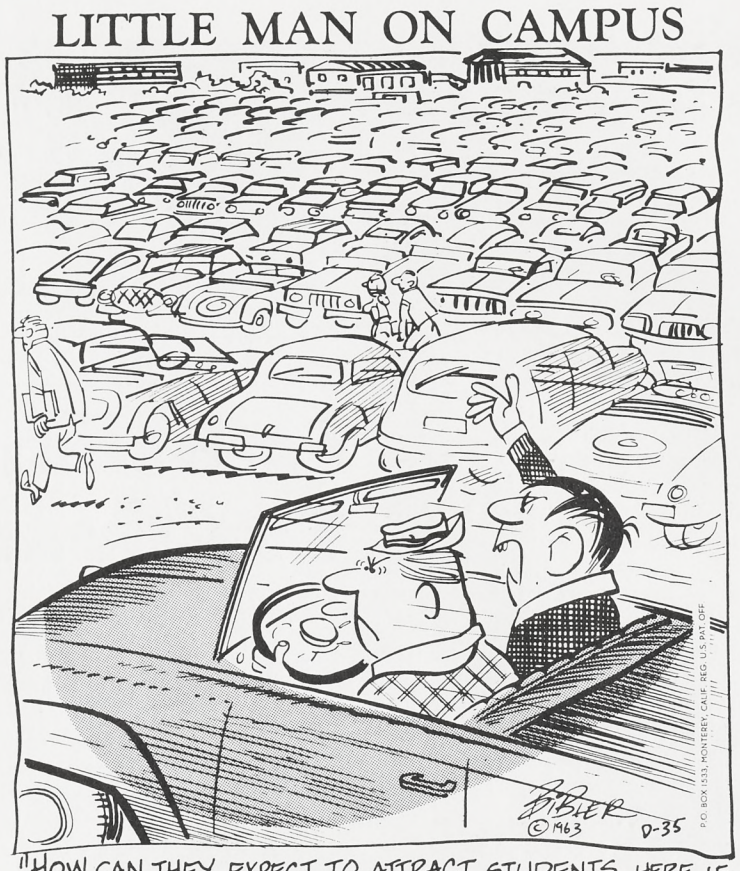

"But a good critic is someone who knows enough about the theatre to know when mistakes are made," he added. He needs to know what experiences the actors are going through.

Stock has directed and acted in plays at the Wharf Theatre and most of the community theatres here on the peninsula. The list of people he's directed and acted with include Marcia Hunt, Zazu Pitts, Boris Karloff and Hugh Marlowe.

Ulyssa Won't Race

Ulyssa S. Turtle, MPC's famous racing turtle, was beaten before she even got to the starting gate.

Ulyssa, scheduled to race at Cal Poly today with turtles from other California colleges, will be unable to attend the event. The Student Council, decided not to allot funds to Ulyssa, her owner, Melody Rodriguez, and her trainer, Tom Trovato, to make the trip to Cal Poly. Besides the entry fee and the traveling expenses, the Council discovered, they would have to pay for motel rooms for the turtle, owner and trainer, and an adviser.

MPC will still enter the race, though. For a small fee, the racing officials at Cal Poly will enter a Turtle, named Mr. MPC. This turtle, they have informed the Council, will be trained personally by the head National Racing Turtle Coach.

Ulyssa is very sorry she cannot run, for she was looking forward to it, she said. She wishes Mr. MPC the best of luck, though. "We turtles must stick together for the good of MPC," she said in conclusion.

Children's House Aided By Four MPC Students

By STEVE PINSKY

Four MPC students, members of the Canterbury Club, donate their Saturdays to help retarded children.

Pat Knight, Jim Pitman, Lydia Punkt and Carol Wright help clean buildings and supervise children's play at the Children's House in Carmel Valley each Saturday.

Children's House is a privately-supported institution to help retarded and emotionally disturbed children. "We try to keep the children at their own school level so they can be integrated back into their public schools with a minimum of difficulty," Mrs. Ford (Fordie to the children), founder and director of the house, said.

The house was begun five years ago and the school two years ago, and is the first such program in California. The idea for Children's House was copied from the New York Public Schools' program for retarded children.

Six students live at the house, and two live at home. The house employs one paid teacher, and has volunteer teachers to help the students individually. This is what the four MPC students do.

Mrs. Ford said she could use more help in the afternoons after the school day is over. During the summer she hopes to have a full brigade of volunteers to help her.

She also hopes enough money can be raised to hire a full-time psychiatrist or psychologist to run the school. Many peninsula psychiatrists now donate their time to the children, but they are not able to cope with the problems of running the house full-time.

Parents pay as much as they are able to keep the school operating, but the house now runs at a deficit. More money is urgently needed to build the staff, Mrs. Ford said.

In the future, Mrs. Ford also hopes to have only emotionally disturbed children at the house. "I think our set-up is better geared for this type of child," she commented.

More information about the house can be obtained from Children's House, Carmel Valley, California.

Coincidence

(ACP)—All elevators and doors of a new women's dorm at the University of California are under lock and key, as the result of several incidents of unwelcome male guests.

However, notes The Daily Californian, it was soon found that the keys from the men's dorm across the way fit the girls' elevators. This has been remedied.

TV Aids in 'Update'

By DENNIS PERU

"LOOK ALIVE, you may be replaced by a button" were the words printed on a card used as a test pattern for the closed circuit television set at the second Operation Update lecture last week.

Mr. David Hopkins, Distributive Education instructor, and Mr. Philip Nash, chairman of the Data Processing Department, both spoke on automation.

Mr. Hopkins discussed the sociological and philosophical problems raised by automation. He told about the effects of automation on unemployment, and how statistics show that since automation, unemployment has decreased, "Men are not suddenly unemployed" he said, "but repositioned to other jobs."

Mr. Hopkins startled his audience when he told of "thinking machines." One of the outstanding thinking machines is a little robot at the Johns Hopkins University who nourishes himself, when hungry, at the nearest electrical outlet. He sleeps, and frolics up and down the hallways when in a good mood, Mr. Hopkins said.

With the aid of closed-circuit television, Mr. Nash demonstrated the operation of several data processing machines.

Using the MPC payroll cards as an example, Mr. Nash processed them through several machines, explaining the operation as he went along. He then showed the versatility of one machine by demonstrating its ability, with the help of Mrs. David Hopkins, to play a game of "craps." The machine gave her instructions, and she followed them, winning the game.

Mr. Nash also discussed trends in automation. He told of different machines which are now being put to use, aiding men in professions ranging from medicine to baking.

"Machines are both directly and indirectly aiding education, making language translating easier, and helping our country in the national defense system," he said.

Coffee was served during a 15 minute break, and a question and answer period followed.

Musical Set For Theatre

"On the Town," a musical comedy, will be the next Little Theatre production of the semester, Morgan Stock, head of the drama department, announced.

"On the Town" will open May 25 for a six day run. There will be two matinee performances, on May 27 and May 30, in addition to the usual night performances, according to Mr. Stock.

Anne Carns, as Claire, April Edwards as Ivy Smith and Sharon Guild as Hildy will play the leading female roles of the play. Opposite them will be Phil Rayher as Ozzie, Pete DeBono as Chip and Nick Hovick as Gabey in the leading male rolls.

Other principals will be Gabriel Goffinet as Madame Dilly, Ron Moore as Pitkin Bridgework and Penny Trowbridge as Lucy Schmeeler.

The supporting cast will include Ernie Payne playing the First Workman and the announcer, Phil DiGiralmo as the Second Workman, Bob Green playing Andy, Sandy Baptiste as Flossie, Mary Kay Boles as the Friend, Karen Draper as the Little Old Lady, Terry Poland playing Bill Poster and Bill Nelson as Uperman. Other supporting roles have not been cast yet.

Vote Yes!

After nearly four semesters of work, sometimes vigorous, sometimes slow and apathetic, a new plan for student government has beeen developed.

We believe that this plan will bring about a new spirit and new life to student government at this college. Of the many aspects of the plan, the following, we believe, are the most important things that the new government will do:

1) It will end appointive offices in a so-called legislative body and will replace these offices with elected representatives.
2) It will end domination of class elections by small groups.
3) It will tighten and reorganize the executive and instigate many new programs aimed at the growth of the college.
4) It will increase the qualifications and responsibilities of student body officers.

The proposals will be voted on by the entire student body next Wednesday.

The student body's Executive Council and Student Council have both approved the proposed Constitution and By-Laws unanimously.

Work on these changes started during the administration of ASMPC President James Costello, and continued under Presidents James Gurney and Mickey Smith. Under President Bob Barker this Spring, the final push for completion of the new plan resulted in the proposals printed on this page.

All in all, we feel that this is a plan that will work for the students. El Yanqui urges a yes vote Wednesday, April 29.

Soc Students Tour Juvenile Hall, Learn Delinquency Problems

By STEVE PINSKY

One of the direct causes of juvenile delinquency in this country today is the fact that children are virtually running the home. This theory was extended by Harry Morris, intake officer at Juvenile Hall in Salinas.

Speaking to about 50 members of Mr. Arthur Oswald's Sociology 2 classes on a tour of the hall recently, Morris charged the American father of passivity in dealing with his children. "With the business pressures facing the father today, he has less time to spend with his family. The mother is placed in a position of being both mother and father, and she is not able to cope with the problems. The children assume some of the responsibilities, none of the headaches and have greater freedom to do what they please," he said.

"With this greater freedom they have more time to get into trouble and some subsequently do," he concluded.

The students toured the Hall, a temporary holding facility for violators of the California Welfare and Institutions Act. None of the wards were present during the tour, but were shuffled around to avoid contact with the group.

Detention at the hall is not considered punishment by the staff. It has a maximum capacity of 72, but the average capacity runs between 35 and 50, or about three percent of the teen age population in the county.

State law requires all juveniles under 16 years of age to attend school. Al Marlin, head teacher at Juvenile Hall, explained the school program. He said that because of the rapid turnover of wards, not too much can be done, but the program is geared to help everybody according to their level and needs.

For those not in school, a work program around the hall keeps them busy. All maintenance is performed by the wards.

Life in Juvenile Hall is carefully planned. From 7 a.m. to 8:45 p.m. wards are constantly on the go. By keeping the kids moving, there is little chance for them to get into trouble. The staff of 20 attempts to keep a good relationship with the kids to prevent any possible trouble.

Parachutist On Campus

By MELODY RODRIGUEZ

What sport is less expensive than golf, skiing, and scuba diving, more thrilling than surfing, international in scope, and fun for the whole family? According to Russ Gunby, the only possible answer is parachuting.

Gunby, a retired U.S. Army major, is a military jump master, a master parachutist, a licensed instructor and an author.

Gunby's most interesting story is about his book, Sport Parachuting, which he wrote three years ago. After two publishers refused to print it, "because parachuting was nothing then and in their eyes would never be anything," Gunby had it printed himself. Now the book has sold over ten thousand copies, is available in fourteen foreign countries, and will soon be available in a Spanish translation. "I haven't really begun to promote the book yet, either," adds Gunby.

"I can't write and my book proves it. I'm in Mr. Sweeney's English class to learn to write so that my second book will be an improvement over the first. I enrolled at MPC to continue my studies and satisfy my curiosity for knowledge," Gunby says.

Gunby's advice to those who would like to try jumping is to "go over to Hollister on the weekends and watch the various clubs jump and talk to the jumpers. It takes guts, but you'll find it's worth it all."

Gunby began jumping in the Rocky Mountains in 1937. He left high school just before his seventeenth birthday and enlisted in the Army. After the Pearl Harbor attack, he volunteered for Officer Candidate School and the Paratroopers and served ten years with the parachute infantry in Europe and the Far East.

He joined the Parachute Club of America in 1958 and became its Executive Secretary in 1959 while training and organizing three sport parachute clubs.

Upon his retirement from the Army, Major Gunby became the first full-time Executive Director of the PCA. He is an international and national parachute judge and was director of two U.S. National Parachute Championships.

Making sure you can "Fill it up"...year after year

Our country's demand for petroleum energy will be up 55% in the next 15 years.

Many people think that petroleum is brought out of the ground simply by drilling wells and letting the oil flow out of its own accord.

The fact is, only about 20% of the petroleum in an average field will flow "of its own accord" before the gas pressures give out, and the oil flow stops. If we gave up then, gasoline would not be as plentiful, and the price would be higher.

But, Standard's petroleum engineers don't give up. By supplementing oil field gas pressures with floods of water, gases, detergents, or even controlled fire, they often more than double normal recovery.

These "assisted recovery" methods, developed through years of research, are making new oil fields more productive, and bringing new life to old oil fields. Besides being good business, they lengthen our country's petroleum supply.

This is one of many ways in which Standard, with its large oil reserves in the ground, discharges its responsibility to conserve a vital resource...to keep pace with our country's needs for industry, defense, agriculture . . . and to make sure you can "Fill it up," year after year.

Planning ahead to serve you better

Five Trailers Help Fill Space Need on Campus

By BILL UNDERWOOD

Five surplus trailers have been spotted around the campus for classrooms and storage areas.

Two of them are being used by the electronics department. Modifications of the trailers included painting, electricity, the addition of safety exits, blackboards and a staircase. The final addition was a plywood siding around the bottom of each trailer to conceal storage areas underneath. The second trailer is being used for the storage of equipment which is brought out intermittently—once or twice a semester—but must be put out of the way in the meantime.

The Drama Department is also making use of two trailers. One is being used for the storage of sets and the other is used as a wing of the stage for the actors between scenes.

The last trailer, now containing a mobile dental laboratory which once belonged to the Navy, will be dismantled and transformed into a data processing classroom. The dental equipment, including an X-ray machine, is to be turned over to the dental assisting department.

The average cost of the trailers, including the dental one, containing thousands of dollars worth of equipment, was $200 each. The low purchase price, according to MPC Technical-Vocational Dean Charles Mulkey, really covers only the cost of handling. They were donated by the Armed Services for use by municipal and government institutions. The trailers used by the electronics department, however, cost an additional $800 to modify.

MUN Delegates Return From Spokane Session

After meeting from 8 a.m. until the early morning hours for four days as Nicaraguans in a United Nations Assembly, MPC's MUN delegation returned from Spokane last weekend.

The delegates gained a better understanding of the purposes, functions, and problems of the United Nations as an organization at the Model United Nations session, according to Bob Reynolds, chairman of MPC's delegation.

Along with more than 1,000 delegates from colleges in all western states, MPC's delegates attended meetings of the General Assembly, bloc caucus meetings and committee meetings.

One of the main items discussed in the General Assembly and in the various committee meetings was the Red China issue. During the discussion of the issue, Bob Reynolds of MPC addressed the Assembly and presented the position of Nicaragua as well as that of other OAS nations. A resolution calling for the seating of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations and all its organs was defeated on the final day of the General Assembly.

Rally Sunday

The second annual MPC Car Rallye will be held Sunday, April 26, sponsored by the Hogans.

Tickets will be on sale in the Student Union today from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at $2.50 per car.

Jerry McGrath Spends Free Time Campaigning

By STEVE SHORE

A great deal of political interest is being generated at MPC by one of its students, Gerald "Jerry" McGrath, who is running for County Supervisor in the fourth district, which covers Del Rey Oaks, Seaside, Fort Ord and portions of Monterey.

McGrath, a member of the Monterey City Schools Board of Trustees, is a well-known figure on campus and served last semester on the committee for the college bond election. He is taking refresher courses in political science, history, business and economics. He has had experience in personnel management and budget expenditure.

In a recent interview, McGrath said that he has been conducting a door-to-door campaign on the weekends and after school. With only six weeks remaining before the June 2 election, McGrath has already finished 75 per cent of his canvassing. When asked how much time he spends campaigning, McGrath said that he spends every spare hour checking precint rosters, making file cards, folding pamphlets and making personal appearances. In order to cut campaign costs he has used volunteers to deliver pamphlets door to door. Thus he has saved about $140 in mailing costs.

If McGrath is elected, he will be the first government official to go directly from our college to an office of such importance. As county supervisor he will be called upon to assist in management of an agency of government that has an annual budget $19½ million and extends from Watsonville south to Bradley.

UC Examination Set For Tomorrow in Lecture Hall

The University of California's "Subject A" examination will be given in the MPC library lecture hall Saturday, April 25, from 9 to 12 a.m.

Adm. Alan Montgomery, MPC Math Teacher, Dies

Rear Admiral Alan Robert Montgomery, (USN-Ret.) died April 17 in a local hospital following a brief illness. He had taught mathematics at MPC since 1959. He was born March 13, 1904, in Warrenton, Va. A graduate of the U. S. Navy Academy, he served in the Navy until 1949.

Private services were held Wednesday at Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno, with Chaplain Harry Johns of the Naval Postgraduate School officiating.

MPC Beats Hartnell 2-0 For First League Victory

By TOM TROVATO

After losing five straight baseball games, MPC got back on the winning trail by beating Hartnell College, 2-0 on the Lobos diamond. The Lobos now have a 4-7 overall record and are 1-4 in league play.

The victory over Hartnell was a big one for the Lobos as they have suffered consecutive defeats from Cabrillo (twice), Santa Clara Frosh, and Vallejo (twice). The ironic twist, though, is that in all of the games the Lobos have exhibited a good brand of baseball, but have not been able to score the extra run needed for the win.

The Hartnell game Tuesday was a close one until the third inning when Darrell Coleman drew a walk and stole second. Then Richard Phillips stepped to the plate and slammed a double to send the runner home.

The Lobos got their second run in the fifth when Al Tegtmeier got to first on a drag bunt and was sent down to second on a sacrifice by Charles Davis. Al got to third base on a wild pitch and came home on a well-executed double steal.

Larry Schumacher picked up the win for the Lobos as he pitched nine innings of five-hit baseball.

The Lobos face Hartnell again today at Salinas. Game time is set for 2 p.m.

Sports Editorial

Let's Play Ball!

With spring sports well under way, Lobo teams have produced a number of individual stars in track and swimming, but cannot seem to win.

In recent years MPC seems to have been beset by the problem of getting enough men for its swimming, track and baseball teams.

Two reasons are the number of high schools that we draw from and the eligibility requirements.

MPC draws from a limited number of high schools, while Hartnell gets students from the whole Salinas Valley and Cabrillo draws from both the Watsonville and Santa Cruz areas.

MPC has only seven relatively small schools to draw from, whereas junior colleges such as Foothill get students from 30 to 40 large high schools.

Swimming Coach Frank Young believes that students coming from high schools in the Fall have no idea what college is like and fall down on their grades, so that they lose their eligibility by the Spring semester.

Coach Young gave one other reason for the lack of participation: there are five sports to chose from in the Spring, while there are only three in the Fall and one in the Winter.

Along with the problem of getting men to come out for the sports, the teams are also hampered because those that do come out don't realize what the competition will be like, since high school administrators in this area limit competition to the Monterey Bay League or Mission Trail League and do not compete with larger schools from the north.

Other coaches have their ideas on why participation is so poor. Baseball Coach Chris Pappas says many students don't think they can make the team and don't try for it. He now has baseball players who had had no high school experience, while students who have played in high school did not even try out.

This year track has ten students out for the sport where in 1960 there were 23 and 26 in 1961. Baseball has 13 players, while in '60 there were 16 and 22 in '61. Swimming is the only sport that has shown an improvement, with 10 swimmers in 1960 and no team in 1961. Bob Reed.

MPC Track Team Defeated At Hartnell

The Lobos were able to place only four men April 18 when MPC took a fifth at the Small College Track Meet at Hartnell.

Hartnell took top honors at the 11-college meet when they scored 81 points. Reedley ran up 76, Cabrillo 71, Santa Rosa 69, MPC 38, Porterville 32, Hancock 22, Menlo 20, Vallejo 18, Gabilan 18 and Coalinga 17.

Long-distance runner Bob Crispin took top honors for the Lobos with two second places, one in the mile and one in the two-mile.

Others to place for the Lobos were John Reed, with fourths in the broad jump and discus and a seventh in the high jump, Lindsey Dorman with a second in the 440 and John Wittington with a fourth in the same event.

MPC will travel to Foothill tomorrow for the Northern California Junior College relay meet without distance runner Bob Crispin, but Coach Luke Phillips is looking forward to high marks from John Reed in field competition and Lindsey Dorman and John Wittington in the 440.

Young Teaching Again After Brief Illness

Mr. Frank Young, MPC swimming instructor, has resumed teaching classes following a two week absence due to illness.

Young, who had an operation to remove a blood clot in the carotid artery of his neck, says he is feeling better now but still not quite up to par. Until Young recovers completely, he is having Mr. Wiswell, who took over for him during his absence, continue to help coach his classes.

Young, who instructs eight swimming classes, has been on the MPC faculty since the founding of the college in 1947.

Lobos Defeat Gavilan; Face Menlo Tuesday

MPC's golf team will host Menlo in a do or die match for a shot at the Coast (JC) Conference championship next Tuesday at the Del Monte Course.

The Lobos were the cause of Menlo's one defeat this season in an earlier match.

If the Lobo team hopes to win the title and have a chance to go to the state match, it will have to beat Hartnell May 7, as well as Menlo.

Should the Lobos lose, they will fall into a three way tie with Cabrillo and Vallejo. Only the first and second place teams will go to the state match and in the case of a three way tie they would toss a coin to see who goes, according to Coach Don Borden:

The Lobos came out victorious in their last match Monday, defeating Gavilan 17½ to 2½ at Bolado park.

Dick MacLean took the honors for the Lobos as he shot a 76 to capture Medalist.
